

ECO HOMES SAVINGS GO TO LOCAL CHARITY

MedEquip4Kids is celebrating today after a donation from Inspired Developments (ID), who has recently launched a development of eco-homes on Heywood Road in Prestwich.

ID has been working with Glamorgan University to demonstrate that less energy will be consumed by occupants of the homes. They have been able to calculate the average annual energy bill reductions, and decided to donate the equivalent of three months savings - £200 - to MedEquip4Kids.

The homes achieve an 'Excellent' EcoHomes Standard, and incorporate a variety of cutting edge, environmentally-friendly design features, intended to help residents save money and help the planet.

Interior walls use Structural Insulated Panels with excellent insulating properties, meaning considerable energy and heating savings - residents hardly need to use their central heating systems. Added to which, an innovative heat recovery ventilation system saves on energy required for heating the properties by re-circulating clean, warm, recycled air from rooms such as the kitchen and bathroom into other rooms around the house.

Based in Prestwich, MedEquip4Kids provides specialist paediatric equipment for hospitals across the North West, ensuring the region's children receive the best care possible when sick and injured.

Denis Maddock, Sales and Marketing Director at ID, says: "We're always keen to support the local community, and when we realised that residents were going to make savings in our eco-homes, we wanted to pass these on to a good cause in Prestwich."

Andrea Fitzgerald, Community Fundraiser at MedEquip4Kids said: "I would like to thank Inspired Developments for their kind donation. The money will go to fund a number of important local projects, which will be extremely beneficial to children and families in the area."
